Commercial Litigation ♦ Real Estate/Construction Law
Public and Private Contract Law ♦ Insurance Law

A shareholder with the firm, Greg has over 13 years of experience in the area of commercial litigation, real estate/construction law, and insurance law. His clients include developers, builders, contractors, architects, engineers and large insurance carriers.

In his real estate/construction practice, Greg counsels builders, contractors, and design professionals on a wide range of real estate and construction issues regarding both public and private projects. He assists his clients with risk management, contract drafting and negotiation, and public bidding. He has presented and defended claims on projects ranging from single family dwellings to multi-million dollar commercial structures.

Greg is an active member of the American Bar Association Forum on the Construction Industry. Greg is active in the Home Builders' Association of Dayton, participating on the Associates' Council and the By-Laws Task Force. Greg also is a member of LANDS (Legal Action Network for Development Strategies) which is an organization developed by the National Association of Home Builders to secure more favorable decisions across the country by government agencies that control the use of private land.

Greg frequently presents seminars to real estate and construction industry professionals on a variety of topics, including Ohio's Mechanics' Lien' Laws and Ohio's Consumer Protection Laws.
